

Medsin's Global Health Conference 2013
March 16th-17th
Glasgow
'Migration- Changing Medicine'

We are pleased to announce this years Medsin Global Health conference which will be taking place at Glasgow University. Crammed full of plenaries, question time, workshops, publicity stunts, campaigns, a Global Health Fair, two lunches, an evening meal and a truly Scottish social. This is a conference not to be missed!

Just like the rest of the UK, Glasgow has been shaped by migration, from rural to urban migrants hundreds of years ago, to more international migrants later in the 20th Century and today as a main dispersal city for asylum seekers. So where better to come and discuss the effects Migration is having on the world around us?!

Workshops including:

- care for asylum seekers and refugees
- legal issues surrounding migration
- working with victims of torture
- expedition medicine
- threats of global pandemics
- refugee doctors

Brought to you by Scottish Refugee Council, Freedom from Torture, Medical Justice, MSF, Student Stop AIDS and STAR

After a jam-packed day of exciting workshops there's also a Scottish style social, so bring your dancing shoes! And as if that wasn't enough, on Sunday we can do it all again!

Featuring Keynote speaker Dr Carballo, who previously worked for the WHO

There will also be a food drive for donations for Asylum seekers and Migrants, Anything from toiletries to a can of tuna. And remember every little helps!

We'll have a question time with several of our speakers so have your questions at the ready.

Saturday Workshop debate Title: "This house would cease the migration of health workers between developed and developing countries"

With Glasgow Uni's Dialectic Society and the GU debates team, alongside research fellow Dr Evgeniya Plotnikova who specialises in health worker mobility. If you want to take part you'll be provided with some support to help you get started! Want to be involved? email ghcglasgow@gmail.com

For all the latest conference news or to buy a ticket check out:

www.medsin.org/ghc13

Or follow us on Twitter @GHCGlasgow

Facebook Medsin Global Health Conference 2013

All this for the early bird price of £33!

Other ticket types also available